Normally the restoration of a car would begin, usually with the car arriving at our workshops in a poor or fair condition, therefore, we would strip the car down to the basics and begin the process of rebuilding from the chassis up. We try to use all original parts in our restorations when available, sourced from various locations around the world, however we can obtain new manufactured parts identical in design as per the original when required.

We have many fine examples of our award winning cars on show in our large showroom, please contact us for further information as viewing is by appointment only.
